

Hey, Black Girl!

CHILDREN'S BOOK

A TIMELY AND RELEVANT DECLARATION FOR BLACK GIRLS TO AFFIRM THEMSELVES NOW

BOOK DESCRIPTION

Every black girl needs to know that she is powerful beyond measure. The world can be scary and intimidating without affirming that she is beautiful, smart, and, most importantly, enough.

Hey Black Girl! is a love letter to all black girls – big and small – who are more than enough and can absolutely have it all. Within these pages, black girls of all ages will learn never to forget who they are, how to love themselves, and remember that their voice matters.

WHO IS THIS BOOK FOR?

GIRLS AND GIRLS OF COLOR

Most appropriate for young girls between 7-15 years old who are struggling with self-esteem, identity, and self-love issues and using their unique voice.

- Girl's Empowerment Programs
- Youth Ministry Groups
- Non-profits / Libraries
- Schools

About the Author

Whitney L. Barkley, M.S. is a dynamic award-winning entrepreneur, podcaster, college professor, and the visionary behind Hey, Black Girl! and is the co-author and illustrator of Hey, Black Boy!

In response to the challenges many Black girls face, she launched Hey, Black Girl! during the pandemic to illuminate their potential and encourage them to boldly use their voice to remind the world that they matter.

Currently residing in Dayton, OH, the Columbus native passionately empowers women and girls across her diverse media platforms including Pink Lemonade Podcast, a podcast that reaches more than 80,000 listeners in 55+ countries.

You can learn more about Whitney's Hey, Black Girl! movement at heyblackgirlbook.com. To order copies in bulk or request Whitney for an author visit, email whitney@speakerazzi.com.

TESTIMONIALS

"This book inspires black girls of all ages. Even as an adult reading this book, I am inspired and motivated. This is something that I needed as a young girl and I'm glad that it's available to all the young black girls today." - Annie Koroma

"I love this book! I brought it for my 7 year old daughter and her friend and this book truly inspired them to love the skin they are in. So often little black girls don't have the chance to see themselves in a book but hey black girl reminds them of their intelligence, beauty and strength. HIGHLY RECOMMEND especially for teachers who are looking to diversify their classroom shelves." - Stephanie Alston

PREVIOUS ENGAGEMENTS

- I AM Queen Awards in Cincinnati, OH
- City Day Community School
- Columbus City Preparatory School for Girls
- Dayton Public Library
- Kiser Elementary School
- Belle Haven Elementary School
- Trevitt Elementary School
- Edison Elementary School
- Brown Girl Mentoring
- Mifflin High School
- Good Day Dayton
- All Indiana / Channel 8
- Columbus Black News
- WDAO Radio / 1210 AM Radio Station

CONTACT

Order Online

www.heyblackgirlbook.com

Email:

whitney@speakerazzi.com

Follow on Social:

 @heyblackgirlbook

 @heyblackgirlbook

